The event started with the speech of Mr. Prabhat Ranjan on the awareness of social economic conditions analyzing various aspects of society and the economy to provide insights into the prevailing conditions and trends. These reports may be generated by governmental agencies, research institutions, non-profit organizations, or academic institutions. Here are some key components that such reports might cover. Economic Indicators: Reports often include analysis of economic indicators such as gross domestic product, unemployment. Socioeconomic status is a characterization derived from a combination of education, income and occupation and can seriously impact student well-being and academic performance. Low students (often first-generation college students) can experience difficult transitions to college and when these students self-identify in "lower," working-class strata, they can feel out of place and court intentions of dropping out.

The students of B.Ed SE showed their interest and asked their questions without hesitation. The aim of the event was to motivate students and aware them about the awareness of different social economic condition.
